Supervisors designate library funds

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL Building costs in the area are escalating and bids for the enlargement and renovation of the present city/county library in Bay St. Louis ran well over those anticipated — that's why Hancock County Board of Supervisors and library officials met Tuesday for a special workshop meeting to iron out where the additional funds. around $184,000, are going to come from.

The supervisors all agreed that the needs for additional library space and services were of the greatest importance and the plan for expansion was a good investment.

Library director Prima Plauche, library board member Evelyn Johnson, Joyce Lee and attorney Michael Haas Jr. returned to meet with the supervisors for a continuation of their Friday, May 13 meeting to address the library's money

Plauche again asked for the additional funds needed to award the contract for construction or a commitment of resolution from the supervisors.

Several methods of obtaining the money were discussed, among them taking out a short term bank loan rather than dipping into funds earmarked for other projects.

"If we can get you all a loan some way or another, I'm all for it," said supervisor Howard Lizana.

But, supervisor Dolph Kellar questioned his fellow supervisors - "How are you going to pay it back?," he asked. Supervisor Robert Peterson advised the group to "bite the bullet," and pay the loan off as soon as possible, if they chose to go for the loan.

It was decided that gaming revenues yet to be collected be used to finance the added costs of construction and renovation of the library.
Attorney Gerald Gex suggested that money earmarked for the library be placed in an interest-bearing account and Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise suggested that needed funds be accrued in escrow until the new was absent. The board members approved a revised school calendar that moved its 1994-1995 schedule forward one day, approved the summer school cost of $110 and named instructors for the classes, and approved Memorial Day a holiday for school employees.

Sherry Ponder, special education program developer, presented a proposed budget prepared to obtain funding on a state level. She went over the forms and board regulations that are required by the state and addressed personnel requirements, goals for service and projections as to what the program might need.

Ponder discussed procedural safeguards and guidelines. She told the board members that the program would serve students in private schools but that they are required to come to school system's facilities. Many need help with speech and language difficulties, she said. Children in foster care and disabled children will also be served under the program.

The format of the budget changed this year" Ponder told the board.

She pointed out that no narritive was required and the specifically approved columns 4-A and 4-C Assurances in Ponder's projected budget.

The board also approved STI Technology as a sole source for supplying permanent academic record files on software.

This bill amended section 97-5-25 which already outlaws sales of tobacco to minors. Moore believes strict enforcement of this law will save lives and millions of dollars in health care costs. For one thing, the new law requires retail establishments selling tobacco products to post a sign stating that state law strictly prohibits the sale of tobacco products to persons under the age of 18 years. Proof of age may also be required by sellers if the purchaser's age is in doubt.

In addition, this law places restrictions on where tobacco vending machines may be located. No tobacco products may be sold unless they are in a sealed container.

In 1991, Congress passed the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration Reorganization Act. The act contains the Synar Amendment requiring states to enact and, enforce laws prohibiting the dirty. You may be next! The casino talks about overhead being the reason for layoffs and terminations. Corporate heads know very well their salaries are higher than anyone's. For every corporate person eliminated, it would save six to eight persons' jobs for the whole year.

casinos will continue to do us all

But instead they keep hiring more corporate people. This is where the overhead begins. But who suffers for it? The employees do.

Overhead is eliminated through benefits that affect the employees. It doesn't matter if a pregnant person is close to delivery time, supervisors are allowed to use any reason they

Then this person is not eligible for other insurance, unless they pay for it, nor can they work anywhere else; they lose the medical coverage. With no money coming in to pay for any of these things, it puts a strain financially as well as mentally and physically stressing these people out.

Termination is a very strong step with someone in these positions, and other procedures should be used.

Unless the casinos show more compassion I will certainly not be in favor of telling my friends to visit. If you have to terminate someone, make sure it's for a good reason, and always use the truth and stop making up reasons to let someone go. Brandy Yarborough

Waveland resident makes plea for motorists to slow down

To the Editor:

Now that the officials have done their part by lowering the speed limit on Beach Boulevard. I would like to make a plea to the driving population of this community to do the same.

The beach road is a scenic route lined with beautiful in the middle of the street to homes, churches and schools, a place to take in the beauty of the Coast and an area designated for enjoyment.

With the recent widening and beautification of the beaches it is sure to attract many more beach goers than it did

Summer is almost upon us. School will be out, and this area will be the chosen spot for joggers, bikers, sunbathers, vacaioners and children. Beach Boulevard should not be our greatest concern of safety for our tourists or our residents.

I travel this route on a regular basis. It is our way of transition, a relaxed drive with a view and talk of the school day.

This past few weeks we have kept a log of all the vehicles that pass us doing well above the speed limit. This blatant disregard for the speed limit signs is totally irresponsible.

If you think you are on this list, try finding another way to In an editorial of Friday, May 6, the second blow turned out to get where you are going. Or, here's a novel idea: leave a few minutes earlier to avoid having to speed to get there on time. Today I witnessed one of the most disgraceful and discourteous acts yet. A class group of teachers, parents and small children were crossing from the stop traffic. The motorist in front of us weaved through the children, beach with a teacher standing passing the teacher and never even slowed down.

This car had a New Mexico license plate. However, they were moving much too fast to get a number. One year ago, June 1, our daughter was seriously injured by a motor vehicle on Beach Boulevard. This has not only changed her life and our families', but also the lives of many who know her. In this past year, this mother has learned to kick butts and call names and will continue to do so until our streets are safe for all. Ease off that gas peddle, and take time to think. The next time it might be one of your friends or your child. Help make this a safe and enjoyable area for our visitors, our community and our children.

CONSUMER UPDATE

Credit and divorce

By Janet K. Lukens Consumer

Management Specialist Along with all the emotional trauma of divorce, financial entanglements are a major problem in the dissolution of a marriage.

Divorcing couples should pay special attention to credit accounts held jointly, including mortgage, home equity loans and credit cards.

One of the most important financial tasks to accomplish prior to a divorce is closing joint accounts. Try converting or reopening them as individual accounts.

A joint account means both spouses are legally responsible to the creditor for the account. This is true even if a divorce decree makes one spouse responsible to the other for paying off the joint account (since creditors are not party to the divorce agreement).

Forestry facts

Environment minded citizens need to know that recycling more paper won't reduce the number or larger trees being harvested. The only way to do that would be to build fewer homes - or use the less environment-friendly materials to build their homes.

Over half of the raw material papermills in America now utilize to make paper comes from recovered paper and wood waste (chips, sawdust) left behind by the lumber manufacturing process.

It's good to recycle paper of course—it's good, thrifty use of our resources and we're running out of landfill space — but recycling to "save the tres" is not the right reason.

For every ton of paper recycled we save 3.3 cubic yards of landfill space.

Ever wonder how many leaves a tree has? Well, of course it depends on the tree's species and size. A large, healthy tree could have 200,000 leaves. That same tree would grow about 3,600 pounds of leaves in a 60-year life cycle.

By law, the creditor cannot. close a joint account because of a change in marital status. However, the creditor can close the account at the request of either spouse.

The creditor does not have to change joint accounts to individual ones. Instead, they may require that the divorcing couple reapply for credit on an individual basis. The creditor may then extend or deny credit based upon the new information.

LOGTOWN REVISITED

To quote from the Hancock County Historical Society's newsletter, "The National Aeronautics and Space Administration facility, recently renamed Stennis Space Center, now stands as a stairway to man's future, while nearby nature slowly covers the steps of his past. THOUGHTS TO SHARE

"You know you're getting old when you accidentally snort when you laugh; you drive for miles without noticing that your left turn signal is on; you wander the parking lot searching for your car.

At family reunions, you have a guaranteed spot at the "big" table; your new doctor looks like a teenager; you can't understand rap music lyrics; you enter a room to get something and can't for the life of you remember what it is."

Popcorn at its mouthwatering best is done in coconut oil or a reasonable facsimile, probably some other palm oil. Add a dash of butter and a sprinkling of salt, and one is ready for an evening of paradise at the movies. Enter the federal government with all its health agencies sneaking around, probing oils, meats, crustaceans, mollusks, fishes, sugars, salt, starches and grains with state-ofthe art instruments and chemical catalysts.

"Spoilsport!" That's about all most people have to say about the federal government's nosing into everyone's eating habits, choice of drinks, use of stimulants such as coffee or tea, and enjoyment of addictive chemicals like nicotine.

So when the government made recent remarks about popcorn done in coconut oil, an instant firestorm was shipped up. A hefty measure of such popcorn was declared worse than a handful of hamburgers plus a serious steak dinner.

"We can't eat, drink or breathe without looking over our shoulders. The tastiest, the most pleasant things in life are gradually being declared lethal by a government which supposedly knows better then we and which just wants to

Having cake and eating it

Such is the general sentiment of a nation given to almost unquestioning worship of the greasyburger, chicken swimming in oil (occasionally beef fat), oil-moist french fries, half-cooked bacon dripping with grease, and super-rich desserts.

I must admit, I was deeply disappointed when I heard that coconuts are loaded with harmful cholesterol. Swaying in refreshing breezes along tropi-cal beaches of the world, coconut has always had the ring of one of God's most special gifts.

Sober reality settled upon me many years ago as I perused the menu of a heart patient. Of the numerous instructions there, one prohibition was the use of any artificial creamer made from coconut or any other palm

Considering that a relatively small amount of coconut-based coffee creamer is consumed over the course of a day, it is unnerving to hear that heart patients are not allowed to use it at all. Such cholesterol concentration must be high.

Oh well, no more coconut macaroons, coconut fudge, coconut cake or other coconutrelated products. Worst of all for most people, no more popcorn popped in coconut oil. The recent firestorm around the government's remarks about popcorn done in coconut oil indicate a dangerous tendency among many Americans. First of all, there should have been no surprise at all, since the information is old hat.

That there was surprise and irate reaction shows how few Americans have been listening to and reading health and nutrition releases over the last couple of decades. There was actually nothing new in the "news" about coconut.

The coconut caper is no more nor less than a dead giveaway of our extremely selective attention and memory. As usual, the sayings of the old folks come home to haunt us: "You see what you want to see; you hear what you want to hear."

Simply put, few of us are willing to see or hear any bad news concerning things we like to eat and drink. We are not going to let any facts interfere with our pursuit of truth.

It certainly would be fun having our cake and eating it too. We can still be healthy if we try it on rare occasions.

Brownies become Juniors Daisies cross over to Brownies

Eight Daisies became Brownies and 18 Brownies moved into the rank of Junior during "Bridging" ceremonies for Bay-Waveland Girl Scouts held at Bay Catholic Elementary School Saturday.

Adult leaders, Jude Ferry, Stacie McRaney, Pat Yarbrough, Kristen Tusa, Sue Favre, Judy Schoengel, Val Knight, Rosalyn Boune, Debra Rose, Lyn Lewallen, Rhonda Calo, Mary Bartholomew, Gail Mitchell and Patti Lacey assisted the girls with the day's activities and special rituals.

Each participant made paint handprints on a large paper rainbow that depicted the worlds of Girl Scouting. The rainbow was placed on the bridge walkway at the rear of school. Each girl stepped on the paper as she crossed the bridge to her new position and was welcomed by the Girl Scouts and leaders.

Parents and family members joined hands and made a giant circle of support after the ceremonies.

Daisies entering Brownies included Alicia Mitchell, Meagan Andrews, Paulette Valle, Twaynna Kaigler, April Carter, Brandi LaFontaine, Ashley Levesque and Jamie Lewallen.

Britni Haynes, Ashley Ready, Nicki Jeffords, Aimee Wells, Kaysha Moore, Jasmine Haynes, Karen Reid, Danille Hardesty, Chantelle Logan, Emily Strauser, Margaret Lewallen, Brittany Lee, Melisa Murrah, Tess Kingston, Jeanne Duplechin, Jamie Goudeau, Julie Reboul and Anna LaFontaine went from Brownie to Junior.

Troop 404 members earned their Junior aide badges by helping with the Bridging ceremonies. They included Libby Ferry, Erin Yarbrough, Kristen Ladner, Misti Summers, Kay Schoengel, Cassandra Favre, Tania Johnston and Delila Quintini. Girl Scout helpers were Dasha and Zabrina Lott and Hannah McRaney.

COLA option given retirees

Retirees and beneficiaries of the Public Employees' Retirement System of Mississippi (PERS) and the Supplemental Legislative Retirement System have an option concerning how they want to receive their annual cost-of-living adjustment (13th check).

Legislation approved this year gives retirees and beneficiaries the option of continuing to receive the entire cost-ofliving adjustment (COLA) in December, or having the legislatively mandated portion paid in 12 monthly installments.

Election forms and information concerning the option have been mailed to retirees. Any retiree who has not received an election form may contact the Retirement System by calling 1-800-444-PERS (toll free).

The decision to change to monthly payments is irrevocable. Once that decision is made, the retiree can never go back to one payment in December.

Last December, PERS mailed 36,071 COLA checks totaling more than $60.7 million. Ninety-five percent of the benefits went to Mississippi residents.

Donald O'Cain, executive director of the Department of Public Safety's Division of Public Safety Planning, said that the "second collision" for persons not using a safety belt or child protection device is what usually kills or inflicts serious injuries.

A May 29 Super Seat Belt Sunday will courage 100 percent safety belt use by state motorists. "For those who have not been buckling up, I hope. this will be the beginning of a lasting, potentially lifesaving habit," O'Cain said.

Noting that Buckle Up America Week runs through Memorial Day, he said that "as Mississippians travel on state highways to celebrate the first national holiday of the spring, there typically is an increase in those driving under the influence of alcohol and other mindaltering drugs.

"Of course it's extremely important to avoid this deadly practice, but the best defense against others who may drive under the influence is the use of safety belts, child safety seats and air bags, if your vehicle is so equipped."

"Buckling up," O'Cain said, "is one of the best steps you can take...for the sake of you, your loved ones and your friends."

State troopers to be in force Memorial Day

Mississippi Highway Patrol Director Col. Jay Clark has issued a stern warning that state troopers plan to be out in force during the upcoming Memorial Day holiday period.

"Memorial Day weekend traditionally has been one of the deadliest holiday periods in Mississippi, and state troopers are going to be very visible to help end this legacy," Clark

He said "call back" details are planned for various areas of the state with the mission of slowing down speeders and locating and arresting drunken or drugged drivers.

"Federal funds will be used to pay officers on call back details who ordinarily would be off duty," Clark said.

"We will have 12 five-officer details over the holiday weekend working eight-hour shifts. This will give us an additional 480 manhours. Aircraft also will be used.

"Cellular telephone users can be an extra set of eyes for us by reporting emergencies on *HP (47). The line will be answered by the substation nearest the caller. We have substations in Jackson, Greenwood, Batesville, New Albany, Starkville, Meridian, Hattiesburg, Gulf-port and Brookhaven," he

"Our mission is to take drivers to jail who are drunk or who register .10 or greater on an alcohol breath test. In the process of locating drinking driv- Monday, May 30.

ers, others who are breaking the speed laws, driving in a reckless manner, driving without a valid driver's license or in a motor vehicle that has an expired license plate decal or inspection sticker also will be cited," Clark

"We have found that people who are careful to maintain an up-to-date license, decal and sticker, are careful to obey the speed laws and would not dare drink alcohol and drive. Others who drive with a suspended or expired license, inspection sticker or decal are more likely to break the more serious laws of driving too fast or driving while drunk," he said. The seat belt law is alive and well in Mississippi, and the legal age for children to be transported in a safety approved child restraint device has been increased from two to four years

Eleven people died in motor vehicle-related collisions in 1993. Of the 11 killed, two were bicyclist, one was a motorcyclist and two were pedestrians. During the 1993 observance, troopers put 101 drivers in jail for driving under the influence, issued 23 citations to drivers transporting children who were not properly restrained in a child restraint device and issued 3,045 citations to drivers exceeding the speed limit. The 78-hour observance gets 27 and ends at midnight on Seatbelt Sunday

First Lady Pat Fordice asks Mississippians of all ages to participate in Super Seatbelt Sunday, May 29, by wearing their safety belts. The Memorial Day weekend is one of the deadliest on Missis-

Gas prices decrease

The average price for all selfservice grades of gasoline decreased slightly since last month, according to AAA Mississippi's May Gas Price

The statewide average price for regular unleaded gasoline decreased 4 tenths of a cent to $1.002 per gallon. Mid-grade unleaded declined 3 tenths of a cent to $1.117 per gallon and premium unleaded remained. virtually unchanged, dropping 1 tenth of a cent to $1.213 per gallon,

In comparison, AAA's survey underway at 6 p.m. Friday, May shows that gasoline prices are much lower than last year at this time.

"These lower prices are very good for those who will be traveling over the Memorial Day weekend," said Danon Jones, director of Public and Government Relations for AAA Mississippi.

"AAA estimates that nationally, 25.4 million people will vacation by auto, light truck, or recreational vehicle, a 1 percent increase over last year's holiday weekend."

The highest average price for self-service regular unleaded gasoline was reported in Greenville at $1.070 per gallon. The lowest average price for the same grade was reported in Hattiesburg, at $.98 per gallon.

Former NASA employee Mary Carpenter, NASA employees Larrie Kelly and Gerald Smith, Sverdrup Technology employee Duane O'Neal, and Johnson Controls World Services employees Randall Abrams, Luke Scianna, Carl Williams and Don Edelen were all cited during the ceremony.

NASA's most prestigious honor awards are presented to a number of carefully selected individuals and groups of individuals, both governmental and non-government personnel, who distinguished themselves by making outstanding contributions to the NASA mission.

In his address, Stennis Space Center director Roy Estess said the ceremony was a time to "recognize those who have committed of themselves and who have contributed to the country and to the (space) agency in their special ways.

G. P. "Porter" Bridwell was guest speaker, who is director of Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

Prior to presenting the medals and certificates, Bridwell spoke of the impact Stennis Space Center and its employees, such as those honored in the day's ceremony, have had upon his life and career.

Pass Christian's Carpenter, a recently retired NASA employee, received the NASA Exceptional Service Medal. He spent a significant portion of his government/industry career. which spanned nearly 30 years, at Stennis Space Center on NASA projects.

Carpenter was honored for his outstanding service in support of NASA to achieve technical excellence in test operations and community involvement.

NASA's Kelly, a resident of Diamondhead, was given the NASA Exceptional Achievement Medal for her past and continuing contributions. As program support assistant in the Center Operations Office, she has contributed significantly to the effectiveness of SSC's operations and the overall suc-cess of the NASA mission. SSC Deputy Director Gerald Smith of Diamondhead was given the NASA Exceptional Achievement Medal in recognition of his leadership for the National Facility Study Task Team.

O'Neal was part of a three-person NASA/Sverdrup Technology team presented with the NASA Group Achievement Award. The Bay St. Louis resident was recognized for his participation in a historic U.S.-Russian scientific expedition to survey volcanic sites in Russia's Kamchatka Peninsula.

The NASA Public Service Group Achievement Award went to a team from Johnson Controls World Services and Sverdrup Technology, includ-ing Abrams from Diamond-head, Scianna and Edelen from Bay St. Louis and Williams from Pass Christian.

The eight-person group was presented the award for their outstanding work in accomplishing a 100 percent assessment of the condition of the facilities and collateral equipment at Stennis Space Center.

The NASA Public Service Group Achievement Award is given to a group of nongovernment employees in recognition of outstanding accomplishment which has contributed substantially to the NASA mission.

turtles have been obtained by Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi, thanks to a coperative agreement with Sandy Creek Nature Center in Athens, Ga. "These turtles will be used for display and for several of our hands-on educational programs," said Dr. Adrian Lawler, aquarium supervisor at the MEC&A. "We are working with Dr. Chris Duke, a local veyterinarian, to ensure the general health of the animals before introducing them into our displays and incorporating them in to our educational programs."

The turtles are less than a year old and have shell lengths of about 6 inches," Dr. Lawler continued. "They appear to be females, but it's hard to tell for sure at such an early age."

The new additions will replace three loggerheads transferred last fall to the University of California Scripps Institute of Oceanography to take part in research on sea turtle physiology. The turtles had outgrown their tanks and were too large to handle by educators and children involved in GCRL's Project Marine Discovery program.

Several days after hatching, the baby turtles were recovered from Georgia's Little Cumberland Island, an area used a natural hatchery since the sites such as the Marine Educa-first loggerhead from SCNC. SCNC has conducted a unique hands-on program since 1983 hat highlights the need for sea turtle conservation to residents and students in Georgia's Clarke County. The effort has been a successful collaboration for Sandy Creek, the University of Georgia, the Georgia Sea Turtle Cooperative and artist Greg Bruce.

The two-hour outreach program, "Georgia's Endangered Sea Turtles," teaches third graders in the county school district about the needs, habits and dangers faced by the animals through imaginary journeys, murals, puppets, videos, skits and other techniques. "We've found that the impact on students actually seeing and respectfully touching the tur-tles is incredible," said SCNC educator Letty Fitch.

"We average about five hatchlings a year," she stated. "In the first year, the turtles are still small and fairly portable. After the first year, they become cumbersome to transport. Loggerheads can also be pretty temperamental."

"We recently tripled the size of our center by adding a Discovery Hall where we can highlight the turtles," Fitch pointed out. "We're glad to know that there's a facility like the Marine Education Center that is willing to take responsibility for the animals as they get larger."

Nursery owners advised of assistance

Nursery owners have an additional opportunity to sign up for 1993 losses under the Tree Assistance Program for nursery inventory. The signup will be from now through July 29, 1994.

Under TIP, CCC reimburses eligible small- and mediumscale commercial growers up to 65 percent of the average reestablishment costs for any weather-related loss that exceeds 35 percent, after adjustment for normal mortality.

The 1993 TAP has been expanded to include commercial nursery inventory, including both annuals and perennials that were lost due to damaging weather or related conditions in 1993, including the Midwest floods of 1993.

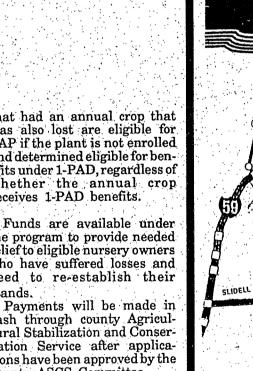

Eligible owners must have an. annual qualifying gross revenue of less than $2 million in the tax year preceding the year in which the losses occurred. Payments for losses may not be more than $25,000 per person.

Nursery inventory for which benefits have been requested and determined eligible under 1-PAD are not eligible for TAP. However, lost nursery plants that had an annual crop that was also lost are eligible for TAP if the plant is not enrolled and determined eligible for benefits under 1-PAD, regardless of whether the annual crop receives 1-PAD benefits.

the program to provide needed relief to eligible nursery owners who have suffered losses and need to re-establish their Payments will be made in cash through county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service after applications have been approved by the county ASCS Committee.

Producers who suffered 1993 losses should contact their county ASCS office for additional details.
